CHARLES-TOWN, January 21.

SINCE our last, the only advice we have from the Long-Canes settlement, is, that, on the 4th instant, a party of 20 militia, from fort Boone, who had been out all night and caught in a storm of snow and sleet, making up to the house of one Cloud (that had been deserted) for shelter, not suspecting any danger there, as soon as they approached pretty near, were fired upon from within, by a party of twelve Indians, who afterwards rushed out, and shot one man thro' the shoulder, another thro' his hat, and a third thro' his coat; that the militia immediately returned the Indians fire, betook themselves to trees, and exchanged several shot, but their guns having got so wet, that only six of the twenty went off, they were soon obliged to retreat, and return to Mr. Calhoun's:—One of the Indians, being observed to drop his piece and clap both hands to his belly, it is concluded, was wounded.

In consequence of the orders issued by his excellency the governor, upon his receiving the first account of the murders at Long-Canes, parties of the militia (except from the Colleton county regiment, who did not march) have been almost continually on the scout, to keep the back inhabitants at home, and discover if there are any more Indians lurking about with mischievious intentions, but hitherto none have been seen since the 4th; however, the people that have fled into forts, do not yet think themselves safe in returning to their settlements:

Lieutenant Winter, and Ensign Price, of the Royal American regiment, are gone, the former to command at Forts Moore & Augusta, the latter at Fort Prince George, Keehowee.

Last monday Red-Shoes, a Chactah chief of note, and Chappahomah, his companion, who were both at the congress held with the southern Indians at Augusta in November last, embarked for Mobile, in the sloop Roby, Capt. Durfee; which vessel likewise carries the share of the king's presents that was allotted for that nation at said congress.

On wednesday arrived here the ship Prince of Wales, Capt. Egger, from Belfast, with about 170 Irish passengers; who are come to settle in his province upon the encouragement given by an act of the general assembly pass'd in 1761, but do not seem inclined to go to the back parts, 'till we have more favourable accounts from thence.

Yesterday arrived here from Mobile, lieutenant colonel Robertson, having compleated the business he was sent upon by his excellency Sir Jeffery Amherst. We hear, he intends to set out in a few days, by land, for New-York.

The officer and troops sent to Tombighé, in the Chactah nation, the beginning of November last, we hear, have taken possession of that fort: But the apparent ill temper, and suspicious conduct of the Creek Indians, has prevented the sending a garrison to Fort Thoulouse, from an apprehension that they would there be almost as much in the power of that nation, as the unfortunate garrison of Fort Loudoun was of the Cherokees; and Capt. Campbell, who was going thither, with 100 men, is since ordered to take possession of Fort Natchie, intended to be called Fort Argyle.

The snow Neptune, Elias Davy, master, is lost near Port-Royal bar.

THOMAS GODFREY,

Having enter'd into Co-partnership with Mr. THOMAS GADSDEN, commencing the first instant;

BEGS leave to take this method of returning thanks to his friends and customers, for their favours to him, and hopes for a continuance thereof to GODFREY & GADSDEN, who now carry on the business: He will be further obliged to them, to discharge or settle their accompts previous thereto, as soon as possible. 6

Charles-Town, January 2d, 1764.

THE Co-partnership of DOWNES and NICHOLSON being expired near three years, and a few accompts still remaining unpaid, JOSEPH NICHOLSON's circumstances and situation, cannot suffer them to remain so any longer; therefore he desires all concerned to take notice, that in a very few weeks longer, every book accompt, note and bonds, will be put in the hands of an Attorney. 6

AS there are several Accompts open in the Books of LISTON & BENFIELD, as well as bonds and notes which have been a long time due. This is to give notice, that they will (if not discharged before the first of February next) be put into an attorney's hands. 6

Charles-Town, January 7th, 1764.

THE Co-partnership of NICHOLSON & BAMPFIELD being expired the 1st current, and JOSEPH NICHOLSON being determin'd to leave the province by the first of April, he acquaints all those indebted to that company (except a few who lately, by agreement, bought goods payable next spring) that they must pay their debts of what kind soever, to him or MR. BAMPFIELD, in two months from this date:

And, as advertisements of this sort, often repeated, seldom have any good effect, he gives notice, that this shall remain only six weeks in the papers, that their accompts shall be all ready in three weeks, and that they may have no excuse, good rice, and any kind of indico will be taken in payment: all who have accompts against them, are desired to send them in. 6

As our former Advertisement has had no other effect, than bringing those to whom we are indebted to call for payment:

WE do therefore, for the last time, give this public notice to all who are indebted to us by bond, note, or accompt, that unless they discharge the same before the first of March next, they will be put into the hands of an attorney. 6 LISTON, BENFIELD, & JONES.

THE Co-partnership of NICHOLSON & BAMPFIELD being expired, they take this opportunity of returning thanks to all their friends, for their favours, and hope for a continuance of them to WILLIAM BAMPFIELD, who has purchased the remaining stock of GOODS belonging to the company, the greatest part whereof are lately imported; which he will continue to sell at a low advance, in order to clear his store, for a well assorted cargo he expects next fall. 6

ALL persons indebted to the of William Seawright, deceased, or myself, by bond, note or book debt, are desired to discharge the same by the first of March next, otherwise their bonds, &c. will be put into the hands of an Attorney, to be sued for without distinction.

January 12, 1764. CYRUS, a run away negro fellow, who was formerly the property of Mr. John Blamyer, but says he now belongs to David Douglas, Esq; in Georgia. Committed by Mr. John Gordon, merchant, 6

CHARLES-TOWN, JANUARY 28.

MANY circumstances render it highly improbable, that the late murders at Long-Canes were the act of only seven renegado Creek Indians, who deserted their country 5 years ago, as mentioned in the Young-Twin's letter inserted in this paper of the 14th inst. Is it not rather to be suspected, that he either knew of an intention to do mischief before it was done; or, that he met the murderers themselves upon the trading path, carrying their scalp or scalps to the Creek nation; for how else, should he, almost as soon as the murderers were perpetrated, know of them, and the murderers, where he was hunting, near Okeni-hatchee, upwards of 90 miles to the westward of Mr. Galphin's, and much earlier than he could have had the intelligence from the Cherokee country, whereto he pretends the murderers were gone? His returning to Augusta, to take into his own charge the presents, which he had left there to be brought after him by traders, also looks suspicious, and as if his countrymen had begun sooner than he expected? But what makes this matter still have a worse aspect, is, that his own cousin, Sympoyaffee or Fool-Harry's son, is now known to be one of the murderers, and the rest of them, all men of such note and influence in the nation (chiefly of the Bear family, one of the greatest in it) that we can have little or no hopes of seeing them punished. — Some are not without strong suspicions, that the Twin himself has contrived this mischief, in order to lay it to the charge of the Cherokees, and set us and them again at variance, that he might either prevent their quarrelling with his nation, or engage them at last to yield to his and the Mortar's repeated solicitations to join them in a general war against the English: A little time will however discover whether these are mere conjectures. If the well affected Creek headmen have influence enough to cause the murderers to be put to death, we shall have undoubtedly peace; if not, sooner or later, all our back settlements will severely feel that it is war.

Last sunday returned from a cruize, his majesty's Ketch Speedwell, commanded by Capt. Fanshawe.

Monday arrived here in 18 days from Pensacola, the two transport-ships Albemarle and Carey, that carried the troops under the command of Major Forbes, from hence, in October last, who were upwards of six weeks on their passage thither.

A few days ago, David Graeme, Esq; his majesty's attorney-general for this province, and his lady, embarked for England, on board his majesty's ship Mercury, commanded by Capt. Goodall, now lying wind-bound in Rebellion-road.

James Moultrie, Esq; is appointed attorney-general during Mr. Graeme's absence.

The Irish settlers who arrived here last year, and are seated between Ninety-Six and Long-Canes, having complained, that they were in a most distressful situation, deserted by most of the neighbouring older settlers, and equally destitute of arms and ammunition to defend themselves in case they should be attacked, as of conveniences to remove their families to places of greater security, a supply of both arms and ammunition has been sent them.

Last monday night we had a very severe gale of wind, at W. and N.W. which continued all the next day and night, and did considerable damage. In it, a schooner belonging to the hon. Daniel Blake, Esq; laden with rice and indico, was lost upon the bar, and every soul perished; another laden schooner, belonging to William Blake, Esq; was sunk at North-Edisto, and several others were put on shore, or otherwise damaged.

Yesterday evening died, as universally regretted as he was esteemed, Col. Henry Hyrne; a circumstance that will, we fear, prove his death is an irreparable loss to his family and friends, and no inconsiderable one to the province.

Mustheah, commonly called Struthers's Friend, a Creek Indian, who, some time since, under the pretence of giving employment to the young fellows of his country that were for war, and keep them from falling on us, instigated their making an incursion into the Cherokee lower towns and killing some women in the fields near Estatowih; within three days after the news arrived in his country of the murders committed at Long-Canes, set out for the Chactah country, to make peace with that nation (several of whom the Creeks lately killed in order to prevent their having a free intercourse with us)—which occasions no very favourable conjectures.

When the French evacuated the Alabama fort (Thoulouse) we are informed, they were attended by no less than 300 of their friends of the Creek nation of Indians — Quere, Whether our not taking possession of that fort can possibly have any good effect on those people? and whether, situated as it is, upon a fine navigable river for boats, in a most fruitful and delightful country, it can, with any sort of propriety, be supposed less tenable by Britons than Frenchmen?

Fool-Harry having been spoke to, about making satisfaction for the late murders and outrages committed by his son and others, it was proposed by some headmen, that the murderers should die, but Fool-Harry opposed the proposal, and said he loved his son; he was then asked, as he loved his son, if he would die for him, but he answered in the negative.

CHARACTERS.

"All General AMHERST's dispositions were made in the most admirable method, and with that regularity of military arrangement, which makes so considerable a part of the character of that able commander. And without question, his conduct in his last expedition, by which he obliged the town of Montreal to surrender without a blow, and conquered Canada, without effusion of blood, deserves every honour and every recompence a grateful people can bestow. The humanity with which he behaved to the conquered, both French and Indians, tho' the one had perpetrated, and the other had at least connived at the most horried cruelties on the English prisoners, adds a high lustre to his conquest. His troops set not one house on fire, not one habitation was plundered, not one man was killed.

"None was more distinguished in this respect than Sir WILLIAM JOHNSON. He led into Canada an army of 1000 of the fiercest and most cruel savages which are bred in America, without doing the smallest damage to the country, or offering the slightest injury to the inhabitants. To effect this, he was obliged to exert the most unwearied endeavours, and the whole of those uncommon talents which gave him such power over the minds of all sorts of men, being respected by the regular troops, dear to the provincials, almost adored by the Indians, and possessed of that genius for acquiring popularity, and that versatile disposition, which we so seldom see united with disinterestedness and integrity. The great victories, by which he has advanced the interest of the nation, have done him less honour than this conduct, by which he has so greatly advanced its character for humanity and moderation. . . . .

Jan. 2. About 11 o'clock last tuesday night, we had a small shock of an earthquake.

Jan. 22. The horrid massacre committed upon the Conestagoe Indians, settled in Lancaster county, though under the immediate protection of the magistrates, having greatly alarmed the other Indians, who at their own request were lately removed from the frontiers of Pennsylvania, and settled, by order of the government, on the Province Island and other places, near the city of Philadelphia) and filled them with apprehensions of the fate of the Conestagoes; we hear they are desirous to return to their friends or former habitations, and that, on their application, the government appointed them guides, and directed their route through the provinces of New-Jersey and New-York, giving them recommendatory letters to those governments for safe passage and assistance; with which they, 240 in number, immediately set out and proceeded as far as Elizabeth-Town in New-Jersey: But it is reported, that no previous notice having been sent to this government, messengers are dispached, to prevent, by remonstrance, their entrance into it.—And if they persist, to give immediate notice. Many people apprehend fatal consequences, should these Indians at this time, under such well grounded apprehensions, and with such shocking ideas of the justice, humanity and protection they may expect in an English government, return and mix with the Indians now at war with us.

We hear that one company of the New-York provincials marched above a fortnight ago, another last sunday, and that the remainder will follow in a few days. They are all cloathed in the most complete manner for the service.
